Who Are the Nine Men?
A Conglomerate Mystery
Chemical Blondness
A Plain Answer

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1928

Picking up Wednesday's late news from the convention you read that nine gentlemen in "reading the nine candidates." How many of the nine candidates names could you mention off-hand? How many would you give for making a President of one or more of the nine? You would think that a party representing about half a hundred million people would possess nine men of whom everybody in the country would know something.

A young lady traveling in the West Indies was much delighted with a waterpout. "It did everything that I expected it to do," said she.

Those interested in murder mysteries, as that young woman was in waterpouts, might say the same of the Elwell mystery.

Almost everything foolish and vicious appears to have been mixed up with it, from bridge whist at high stakes to bootlegging for profit.

The race track, Palm Beach, all the roof gardens, all kinds of parties, on the fringe, INSIDE the fringe and OUTSIDE the fringe of society were represented.

The bootlegging part of the Elwell murder is the latest development. It has attracted attention of United States detectives. You could murder Elwell without interfering them, but when it comes to drawing a worthless check for twelve thousand dollars in payment of bootlegging whiskey, the United States government wakes up, and that waking may catch the much-wanted murderer.

A judge has decided that it isn't criminal libel, not even an insult, to call a lady a "peroxide blonde."

The judge's decision was based on the fact that a woman with pink hair is more interesting than a woman with gray or red hair.

A blonde is a walking miracle of chemistry. It is a mixture of two parts hydrogen and two parts oxygen and you have peroxide of hydrogen, which produces the golden hair or disintegrates the wound.

When you realize what that additional part of oxygen does in changing water into peroxide of hydrogen, you can see how important it must be that you have your children should get plenty of oxygen.

Leave the windows open always. Sleep out of doors in Summer.

William Jennings Bryan can give you a plain answer. Many "Meadows" can't. The New York World on Tuesday asked:

Jennings Bryan attending the Democratic national convention a delegate or a paid agent of the Anti-Slavery League?

Bryan's reply telegraphed to this writer, is in part as follows:

"I am working for the homes of the land against the damnable traffic championed by the New York World, and find an ample reward in the thanks of men, women, children and reclaimed drunkards."

Some day Mr. Bryan will know that it isn't necessary to have any "reclaimed drunkards" because it isn't necessary to have drunkards. There are millions of people in Europe among whom to drunkard or teetotaler is ever next.

Thomas Jefferson knew it. That is why he fought whiskey more savagely than Bryan ever did, and recommended legalized sale of light wine and beer, while forbidding whiskey.

Otto H. Kahn, capable financier, publishes a book that asks this question, among others:

"Why does there exist in the United States a widespread attitude of suspicion against high finance?"

There exists a suspicion against high finance in the United States because the people know that high finance is taking more than its share of the national money.

When high finance gathers in 100 per cent. a trust or corporation investments, while "patriotically" urging little men to buy bonds that pay 4 per cent., there is something wrong. And the people know it.

"What does high finance really mean?" is another question in Mr. Kahn's book.

High finance means that modern leaders use dollars instead of soldiers in the industrial revolution that today replaces military feudalism of ancient days.

The dollar soldier of industrial high finance is a great improvement on the old human soldier of military feudalism.

462 COUNDED AS ANTI-McADOO

Opposition to His Nomination Solidifies for "Last Ditch" Fight

By SAMUEL G. BLYTHIE, Copyright, 1928, by Central Press Association.

San Francisco, July 1.—Combination to prevent the nomination of McAdoo was solidified today. The captain of the various groups that comprise it say it will hold. After checking and re-checking the various groups, the following New England States 11, Eastern States 10, Western States 14, Southern States 10. Total 45.

This division into groups is broadly geographical and made merely for the convenience of the managers of the combination. The important part about it is that it shows 452 votes almost 100 more than one-third of the convention and two-thirds are required to nominate.

The total of 452 does not include a number of votes from States that are pledged at the outset, and it is expected there will be important accretions before third or fourth ballot when it is planned to shift the votes to the man deemed upon the candidate for whom the real endeavor will be made. The confident claim is made that these 452 votes are last ditch anti-McAdoo men and women and that they will stand out indomitably against him.

Two girls in men's clothes arrested. Two girls dressed in men's clothing were arrested in Providence and held at Station 3 as suspicious persons. One of the girls said that she was Grace Palmer, aged twenty, and had a brother in the United States army. The other gave her name as Edith Smith, aged twenty-two, and a Middleboro resident.

Wilson Leads Betting in Wall Street. New York, July 1.—President Wilson was made the favorite in the Wall Street betting on the Democratic nomination for Tuesday. Odds against his re-nomination were put at 9 to 1. His name was first listed a week ago when the "price" was 10 to 1.

The odds on McAdoo, the favorite Tuesday, lengthened correspondingly. His chances were quoted at 5 to 1. Other candidates on whom the odds were shortened were Marshall, 24 to 1, and against 24 to 1, and 24 to 1, as against 24 to 1.

Sensational disclosure involving a married woman of Wakefield, R. I., who was madly in love with Joseph R. Elwell, slain turkman and gambler, have been made by Annie Kane, the whist expert's former housekeeper, who now resides in Ireland.

A variable fond for the seduction of the slain man resident between this woman and another of his intimates known by the name of "Miss Wilton," according to the former housekeeper, who declares that the latter threatened to sue possession to kill Elwell if he deserted her again. Miss Kane's story follows:

Newbury, County Down, Ireland, July 1.—Annie Kane, formerly housekeeper for Joseph Elwell, the murdered turkman, has just given me an exclusive interview, a wealth of hitherto unknown facts which may lead to the solution of the murder mystery that has been baffling the New York authorities since June 11, when the wealthy whist authority was found dying from a bullet wound in the back of his head.

3 BIG STREET JOBS TO END

Main Auto Outlet to Providence
Among Contracts Awarded in West Roxbury

Three big street jobs in West Roxbury, begun over a year ago, are to be completed this Summer, it is announced by the public works department, much to the relief of motorists and residents who thought they would never see the end of the work.

The paving contract, awarded with the approval of the Mayor, is the largest of the year and represents an estimated expenditure of $20,000. It calls for the laying of the Topoka form of bituminous pavement in Beach street from West Roxbury railway to Belgrade avenue, Belgrade avenue from Anawan avenue to Centre street and Cott street from South street to Spring street. The Rowe Contracting Company was the successful bidder.

Advisers who had hoped to see the completion of Centre street early this year, will be disappointed to know that the job is not yet to be started, although the close of Summer will probably see the job completed. This is part of the main automobile highway to Providence. The street has already been widened to a uniform width of eighty feet but in its present condition it is worse than before the job was begun.

Another street paving job that is shortly to be under way is the laying of bituminous pavement on the road, Paraphar street and Melrose street, Roslindale. Bids on this job were received but the contract has not yet been approved. The same payment is to be paid in Elder and Wilbur streets, Dorchester.

McHenry, Boy Slayer, in Guiteau's Cell

Washington, July 1.—John McHenry, the New London, Ct., youth convicted of slaying President McKinley, today occupies the same cell in the Federal House of Detention as Charles Guiteau, the assassin of President Garfield. His imprisonment is unbroken. "Well, you're not so different here and you are going to hang me," he said. "But after you slaying me you can't do anything but hang me—there's no satisfaction in hanging me." He declared he would rather be hanged than stay in jail. Attorneys have asked for a new trial on the ground that McHenry's confession was admitted. If motion is refused they will carry it to the Court of Appeals. They attempt to prove insanity.

McHenry was sentenced to life imprisonment on the night of July 12, 1919, when the officer arrested him and took him to the Federal House of Detention. He was taken to the Federal House of Detention, near the reservoir.

GET CITY PAY AFTER DEATH

Fin. Com. Charges Mayor Approved Continuing Salaries to Dead Employees' Relatives

Mayor Peters is charged with approving the unlawful use of public funds in continuing the payment of salaries of deceased city employees to their relatives for a certain period after death, in the first personal attack made upon him by the Finance Commission.

The Mayor's own arguments against the payment of public funds for this purpose are turned against him by the commission, which recalls that he termed them "special privileges" and "gratuities" and therefore recognized them as unlawful.

APPROVED 3, VETOED 5.

The Mayor approved three of these cases and vetoed three and then, in the former instance, added "another special privilege feature to the list of itself," the commission finds.

"Your honor having approved and disapproved an equal number of these special acts, no one can be certain what your action will be when the next one is presented to you," states the report. "Your honor has made it plain, however, that you appreciate the fact that the use of public funds in this manner is unlawful, and although unlawful, you consent for reasons that you have not set forth, to give your approval to the use of public funds in selected cases."

RECOMMENDS DISAPPROVAL.

The Mayor, the commission declares, twice vetoed an extension of salary to the widow of a deceased city employee, but approved the payment of $250 to the widow of a $2,000 employee of the treasury department, and also approved payments of $12,500 to the widow of a deceased city employee as salary beyond the date of death, but vetoed two acts providing for the payment of continued salary of deceased city employees to their widows.

The commission recommends that in future the Mayor disapprove all special acts and all orders for payment of gratuities and adopt that as his uniform policy.

500 CHIROPODISTS NOW REGISTERED IN STATE

Massachusetts now boasts of about 500 chiropodists, of whom about 30 per cent are women, all of whom did respectable work during the war in caring for the feet of soldiers, according to Dr. Walter P. Rogers of Clinton, secretary of the State board of registration in medicine.

JUMP OF 40 CENTS IN GAS FOR MANCHESTER, N. H.

Manchester, N. H., July 1.—The request of the People's Gas Light Company of this city for an increase in rates from $1.10 to $1.50 per 1,000 feet has been granted by the Public Service Commission.

The commission stated that the company officials had presented figures showing the necessity for an increase of slightly over 40 cents a thousand to meet the increased cost of labor and material, particularly in oil and coal.

FIRE ESCAPE THIEVES LOOT LAWRENCE FLATS

Lawrence, July 1.—Tenements on Valley street were entered by thieves familiar with the district. Liberty bonds, money, and jewelry were taken, the thieves entering by fire escape windows. Money valued at $100 was taken from the home of Joseph Vaudrill at No. 213 South Broadway by burglars. Discarded rings, watches, silver sets of cutlery, two pairs of shoes, two tin snips and a bank containing a large sum were stolen.

DESERTION ALLEGED IN WIFE'S DIVORCE SUIT
Mrs. Vassilo (Mrs. of Natchez) has filed a suit for divorce against her husband, Andrew Vassilo, son of her late husband, Andrew Vassilo, who is now in the United States Army, and who is alleged to have deserted her on October 13, 1916.

GOING TO RUIN SAYS MINISTER
Dark Parlors and 'Lovers' Lanes' Cause Trouble, He Declares

Columbus, O., July 1.—"America can go nowhere but to perdition, unless the social customs and practices are changed," declared Rev. Dr. Daniel P. Riordan, local Baptist clergyman, discussing the subject, "The Manned Pair," at the annual conference of the Baptist ministry here. "Young people no longer consider necessary to remain faithful and wedded about the most important question of their lives, but, instead, choose the easier of the back path with the lights turned low, or the 'dark parlors' and 'lovers' lanes' on a momentary basis. The average girl today is choosing an easy, two-way ladder, and a beautiful home in place of true wedded love. Young men do not feel deceived by the old saying that two can live just as cheaply as one. There's nothing in it. The law of our country should require every young man and woman applying for a marriage license to present a certificate of good health from the family physician. It is the duty of every normal

Austria's Royal Baths Open to Poor
Vienna, July 1.—The magnificent marble swimming-bath of the late Emperor Franz Joseph is shortly to be thrown open to the poor children of Vienna, who will be allowed a daily plunge free of charge.

A certain mystery and romance hangs about the bath. After the death of the emperor, his wife, the late Empress, who was known only to a chosen few, was eagerly sought by the liquidators of the Hapsburg estate, so cunningly was it hidden in the dense thickets of the royal forest at Schenbrunn that it was four months before it was located. person to marry. I am in favor of a big tax on bachelors after they are twenty-five or thirty years old. Marriage is a serious business. Above all, stay married. Eighty per cent. of divorce cases are the fault of the man. Motorman Narrowly Escapes
Worcester, July 1.—James P. Panning, aged twenty-nine, of No. 217 Cambridge street, a motorman, narrowly escaped death in a rear-end collision of trolley cars on Park avenue. The vestibule of the car Panning was operating was smashed to bits.

HONEYMOON CAR INJURES MAN
Chauffeur of Melrose Bridal Pair Arrested for Canal Street Accident

Wilbur C. Hankins of No. 21 Canal street, Melrose, employed as a chauffeur for Lewis K. Thirion, owner of No. 21 Canal street, Melrose, was arrested by the police of the Hanover street station in connection with an accident that took place on Canal street while he was driving the daughter of his employer and her husband to the South Station where they were to start on their honeymoon trip to the coast. Hankins was proceeding up Canal street when he collided with another car in which S. H. Berry, forty-seven years, of No. 28 Dartmouth street, was driving. Berry was knocked off his seat, receiving lacerations and a possible fracture of the skull. He was removed to the Relief Station and placed on the danger list. Mr. and Mrs. Rose Stuart Overt, the newly-married couple, were allowed to proceed to the South Station, where they boarded an early train for New York, en route to California. The bride, before her marriage, was Miss Florence A. Thirion, daughter of the Melrose ship owner, and is well known in the city. She is a graduate of Miss Mason's School "The Castle" at Tarrytown, N. Y., whose husband is a well known rubber and mining expert, with connections in New York. The couple were married at the home of the bride's parents by the Rev. John H. Dayton of Brooklyn, N. Y., and his brother, Rev. Edward Boston, of Springfield.

700 FAMILIES IN RENT STRIKE
Springfield Tenants, in United Movement, Refuse Increases Demanded by Landlords

Springfield, July 1.—At least 700 families joined in a movement, virtually a rent strike, and today tenanted their landlords the old rental, declining to meet the general increase in rents, effected in this city recently. William F. Grady, president of the Ten Payers Association, announced that the organization has a fund that will be used in case legal proceedings are brought against any of the tenants.

URGES FISH IN PLACE OF BEEF

Scanlon of State Board Says Meat Prices 20 Per Cent. Excessive

Householders of Boston and Massachusetts are requested by Bernard P. Scanlon, secretary of the State Commission on the Meat Supply, to substitute fish unless dealers will sell meat at least 20 per cent. over the prohibitive price charged last week.

"Prices of the wholesalers have dropped from 30 and 31 cents in 24 and 24 cents for beef carcasses," he said, "and consumers should insist upon getting beef at least 20 per cent. less than that paid last week. There is absolutely no reason why this wholesale drop should not be reflected to the consumer."

"Rump steak, which sold for 31 per pound last week, should be bought at no more than 20 cents this week, and a similar drop should be noted in other steaks. Dealers who refuse to lower their prices 20 per cent. should be boycotted. Some dealers have already gone down 25 per cent. and others run the risk of being forced to if the people will refuse to buy there."

RAILROAD NEED NOT CUT SPEED OF TRAINS

An attempt to force the railroads at the State to reduce the speed of their trains or make various improvements in the roadbed ended in failure when, at the conclusion of a hearing before the State Department of Public Utilities, Chairman Atwell remarked: "It seems to be the consensus of opinion that everything is as right as it should be."

Rumor Gen. Edwards Is to Regain His Rank

It was Brigadier-General instead of Major-General C. E. Edwards who walked into the Army headquarters today with only one star upon his shoulders. During the night he had taken off the other star in accordance with the order of the War Department in demoting regular army officers from their temporary war rank to their permanent rank.

General Edwards was made a brigadier-general in 1915 by President Taft and has headed the list of brigadier-generals for years. Brigadier-General A. M. McDrews, John L. Hines, Henry T. Allen and David C. Shank were made permanent major-generals Tuesday and will take precedence over General Edwards. It rumored around Army headquarters that General Edwards would be made permanent major-general on Friday and the announcement of the promotion would be made known then.

Some Democrats, including the writer, have been very strongly of the opinion that this is a questionable issue.

Wilson Platform and Wilson Nominee Means Inevitable Democratic Defeat

Does the Democratic convention want the party to bear the burden of the last two years of Wilsonism through the campaign? Can there be an intelligent Democrat in the convention who does not realize that Wilson's record since the last congressional election is an unpopular as it is undemocratic?

Every reason of policy and principle ought to dictate its repudiation.

In the last two years there has not been a single democratic principle or American tradition which has not been violated and flouted. There has not been a question with a foreign and American side which has not found the administration throwing its weight upon the foreign side.

The President violated an American tradition of policy as old as the republic that no American President should subject his person to the power and jurisdiction of a foreign nation. From Washington to Taft, no American President put his foot across the American frontier during his term of office. When President Wilson went on Don Quixote expedition abroad he demeaned the dignity of his office and its power and even the respect and admiration which the men in foreign lands, seeing him at a distance entertained for him.

We went to war to make the world safe for democracy. He made us the associate, after the war, of nations which have been and are now guilty of violating the principles of democracy in five times as much territory and against twenty times the population he was even threatened by Germany.

We went to war for the freedom of the seas, and the President entered into agreements which made the seas the private ponds of Great Britain.

We went to war promising that we would not be a party to a vindictive, revengeful peace that would carry in its vindictiveness and abnegation the seeds of another war and the President aided and abetted and even led in the making of a most vindictive, vindictive and destructive peace that was even dictated to a conquered nation since Rome destroyed Carthage; so revengeful and vindictive and destructive that within two years, as the Hearst newspapers and the other liberal forces in the world at the time predicted, the VICTOR NATIONS HAVE FOUND THEMSELVES OBLIGED ALMOST EVERY DAY TO AMELIORATE IT. We welcomed the Russian republic into the world with a most solemn promise that we would respect the right of the Russian people to establish their own government according to their own ideas. We have hounded Russia, carried on an unconstitutional war against her, blockaded her, denied her people medicines and food with a cruelty absolutely unprecedented in the history of civilized warfare.

We, who were fighting for democracy, have under the leadership of the President in the last two years, seen our power used to set up monarchies and pull down democracies throughout Europe. We, who denied the right of any nation to pass peoples back and forth without their consent, have participated in the worst orgy of imperialistic gluttony that has been seen since the first partition of Poland many generations ago.

We, who promised to defend throughout the world the right of self-determination, have seen the present administration aid in the denial of the right of self-determination on every continent, except South America, and now the President actually proposes that we should enter a league, Article X, of which binds us to use our blood and our wealth to aid the imperialistic nations to hold down the peoples they are now oppressing and governing against their will.

Our resources and the gallantry of our people put us at the end of the war in the leadership of the world; but at the end of the President negotiations we found that our own associates and our own President thought us worthy of only one vote in the councils of the nations against Great Britain's five votes.

The President promised to defend our principles as bellies without passion and ourselves observe with pure punctilio the principles of right and of fair play that we professed to be fighting for, in a high spirit of right and fairness because we act without animus, and thereupon his administration, under the impossible Palmer, proceeded to confiscate the private property of our offending German private citizens, contrary to all principles of international law since the Magna Charta, almost 800 years ago, and contrary to all honesty and decency, and contrary not only to the honor, but to the interests of the United States, selling private property at enormous profits to American profiteers, who were enabled to purchase it by various means.

He turned back the railroads to the stock gamblers in Wall Street guaranteeing them out of the pockets of the American people, immunity from reckless mismanagement during the next six months.

The present administration has recklessly violated all the fundamental safeguards of democracy in America, destroying free speech and the right of free assembly and a free press, and exhibiting an intolerance for the fundamental rights of our citizens that was exhibited nowhere else in the world during the war or after it.

During the last two years the present administration has undertaken to reduce American workmen to slavery in some critical instances, and has restored the old and vicious practice of government by injunction, using for this purpose a war power enacted for another purpose and which the administration solemnly promised to representatives of American workmen would not be used to oppress them.

There is no American tradition or policy that has not been flouted and abandoned; there is no American liberties which have not been disregarded; there are no American liberties which have not been violated by the administration during the last two years.

In the whole world there is not today an autocracy more supreme and more contemptuous of public opinion than the autocracy President Wilson has built up through war psychology and through the subversion of Congress.

Will the Democratic convention attempt to perpetuate this autocracy by making a nomination dictated by the President and adopting a platform commending his stewardship during the last two years?

Does any intelligent delegate to the Democratic National Convention believe that there are so few Democrats who know why they are Democrats and who revere their party principles and their Americanism so little that they will let their Americanism and democracy can be flouted without danger of a schism which will destroy all hope of Democratic success this year? and may extinguish the Democratic party itself?

Nominate a man with a Wilson brand on him and on a Wilson platform and the nomination will not be worth the paper on which it is entered in the records of the Democratic convention.

More Truth Than Poetry

The Old-Fashioned Price

THE world's growing steadily better and brighter.

Conditions improve and men's comforts increase;

The slaves are unchained and their burdens grow lighter;

If warfare goes on, there is promise of peace.

Where autocrats blundered the people are ruling.

We have steadily shortened the laborer's day.

But forwardly men and frail women keep fooling

In the old-fashioned way.

WE add something yearly to better conditions.

Where ignorance was men begin to be wise;

We turn from old errors and old superstitions.

We are finding new suns in the star-sprinkled skies.

We are learning new truths and detecting false touchings.

We add to our talents and sharpen our skill;

But love-maddened men and wild women keep reaching

The depths that are still.

WE are raising the standard of living, and

That wisdom is mighty and ignorance weak;

We are lessening danger and constantly earning

New rights to the higher dominions we seek.

The world is improving, each day brings advances,

But still gleaming tinsel and baubles en-due.

And still men and women keep on taking chances

At the old-fashioned price.

Honesty First, Says Farrar

GERALDINE FARRAR, Boston's own grand opera prima donna, to help with her husband, because such is "brutally honest" with the other.

At least, that is the explanation given by Mrs. Farrar in a special article which she has written for the magazine section of the Boston Sunday Advertiser, appearing next Sunday.

Only a house pulled on honesty in small things, as well as great, can stand, says Mrs. Farrar. Therefore, when she gave a performance at the opera house her standard, she expects her actor-husband to tell her so frankly, instead of trying politely about it as most husbands are expected to do.

The famous Hope diamond, a wonderful gem which was once a part of the trappings of an Indian idol, has blighted the lives of more than a score of people who have possessed it, so says the newspaper.

May Yale, the latest woman to wear the diamond, has written for the Boston Sunday Advertiser a most interesting history of the jewel and its history from 600 A. D. to the present time, touching upon the misfortune of its various owners, late whose hands it has fallen. She tells the story of her own lighted career, which she mentions on nothing else than the Hope diamond.

The first installment of her article appears Sunday in the Magazine Section of the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

The Lutine is to be raised. Scientific salvaging methods will be employed to bring the great vessel, with its huge treasure in pearls, to the surface. New salvaging problems must be met and overcome if the project is to be successful.

But, besides the $15,000,000 in stolen treasure, the salvagers will find other things—for the Lutine is the coffin of hundreds and thousands of innocent victims of the pirate's greed. As they saw their way into the Lutine, the illustration in the Boston Sunday Advertiser shows interesting information on these points.

YE TOWNE GOSSIP

Registered U. S. Patent Office.
By K. C. B.

DEAR K. C. B.—Since I can remember I have been my duty to take the laundry to Charlie Yung, our Chinese laundryman. And truly, K. C. B., if you love cats and dogs and kids and everything you would love Charlie Yung.

Yesterday on my way to business Charlie happened on the same train and spat out right next to me. I was praying that he wouldn't recognize me, but he did, and talked until every one in the train was watching us and until I got out.

This morning I have a letter from one of my best friends. He asks me "how come" the sudden infatuation for the yellow-skinned, stunted brother. It was a mean letter, K. C. B., and I want you to answer it for me. My boy friend reads thus:

"Would you talk to your Chinaman friend, if you had one, in a crowded train?" FRODO TRAVELS.

No. 62 Seneca Street, Brooklyn.

MY DEAR PEEPS,

IF I had a friend.

OF ANY color.

OR ANY race.

I'D TALK to him.

NO MATTER where.

NOR WHO were there.

BESIDES MY friend.

AND I.

AND, TOO.

I WOULDN'T care.

IF SO it was.

THAT SOME one wrote.

AND CHIDED me.

FOR IF I feel.

THAT I am right.

WHY I do.

WHY SHOULD I care.

THAT SOME one else.

SHOULD CRITICIZE.

FOR AFTER ALL,

EACH ONE OF us.

MUST BE the Judge.

OF OUR own self.

AND BEING that.

IF WE would cease.

TO RULE ourselves.

THROUGH FEAR.

OF WHAT the world would think.

AND LAUGH.

WHEN WE would laugh.

AND CRY.

WHEN WE would cry.

AND MAKE our friends.

FOR DEEPER things.

THAN WEALTH.

AND CLOTHES.

OR SOCIAL claim.

THEN WE'D be real.

THINGS IN GENERAL

About Profits, Best Customer, Killing Rats, Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1920, Star Company.

Some day, perhaps, this nation now technically and humorously "at war" with Germany will be at peace.

In the meanwhile we are learning what it costs to be at war while war is really going on, and later when the old cat is dying out.

When prices went up for coal, gasoline, or anything else, you were always told, "War and the increasing cost of labor cause it." You learn now that corporations have been making a profit of one hundred per cent. There was evidently something taken in above the cost of labor.

The Standard Oil Company has just paid to its stockholders more than thirty-seven million dollars profit FOR THREE MONTHS. Evidently there was something in the way of profit in recent prices of gasoline, oil, etc.

With all "good management" to keep down excess profits tax it is shown that more than two thousand corporations in the United States earned every year for three years one hundred per cent. on their total value.

It is to be thought the owner of an apartment house costing five hundred thousand dollars should charge for rents five hundred thousand, the full value of the property every year, after paying all taxes and expenses.

Doctors tell you that every one of the glands in your body—salivary glands, glands that produce tears, etc., are capable of just so much activity and no more. Once you exhaust them they remain exhausted.

The charity gland in the American nation shows signs of feebleness. The Salvation Army drive, one of many, proves a failure. And the great "Interchurch Movement" has officially abandoned its effort to raise thirteen hundred million dollars.

There is comfort for managers of the Interchurch thirteen hundred million dollar failure. They wanted that money exclusively for the service of the Lord. And they retire after the failure, well knowing that the Lord, if He chooses, by the mere exercise of His will can produce for His own purposes thirteen billion times the amount required.

Canada sells to the United States now more than she sells to England. This will have a softening effect on what appears to be Canada's dislike, or what you call "lofty contempt" for the United States. If you have ever studied English or colonial shopkeepers you know they always have a tender spot for the best customer, and may be found rubbing their hands politely, at the door, when he appears.

Meanwhile, provided the relations between the two countries remain friendly, as they should, it is an excellent thing to have Canada and the United States under different governments. It makes no difference who OWNS the territory. The important question is what kind of average happiness is to be found in the territory.

Canada has done admirable things in government, encouraging farmers, protecting national resources. In many directions she has been a good pacemaker, far more useful to this country than would be United States ownership of Canadian soil.

If only the Mexicans could be sound in method and in intention as the Canadians, this North American continent would be in good shape and could watch the rest of the world with benevolent interest, but without anxiety.

In cases figures interest you, we bought from Canada in the last fiscal year $472,440,294.

The bubonic plague has come up from Vera Cruz to North America. Two cases have been found in Texas. There is no danger of a serious epidemic, but there is co-operation every National, State and Municipal government should co-operate to wipe out rats that spread the plague.

Besides spreading plague, they carry flies and other diseases with them, and they destroy millions in property every year. Texas is waging war against them, but, in the usual way, the war will stop and rats come back, once the scare dies out. The war against rats, against mosquitoes and other disease-breeding nuisances, including stray cats in cities, carriers of diphtheria, should be unceasing.

Eventually the work will be complete and only inexpensive supervision needed. England has proved that it can be done with the thoroughness that she often shows eliminating hydrophobia in the British Islands.

There are no mad dogs in England. They may bite each other as much as they choose, none of them to go mad, but none has in its system the poisonous germ to be transmitted to another.

Solomon was wise; see the story of the two mortars. But he was not so much wiser than Mr. Gainer, Mayor of Providence, Rhode Island. An Italian left ten thousand dollars to Providence. The money was to go to the "very best girls in the city," morality, general conduct and family virtues to be considered. Mayor Gainer, modern Solomon, says that at least one hundred girls in his town are as good as any other girl, and if there were a very best, she probably would be too modest to claim the money.

So the Common Council refuses the ten thousand dollars. It would not be a bad idea to turn the thing around and use the ten thousand dollars to help put two or three NOT "best girls" on their feet. To do good, pick up those who have fallen.

Henry C. Gibson, of Philadelphia's Commercial Trust Company, studies business in the day time and astronomy at night.

He is building a modern astronomical observatory for his private residence. Other bankers, and citizens generally, are also asking, "Why should a man, tired out in the evening, waste time studying the stars? What can they tell him?"

Hoptoads live beside the railroad tracks on which the Twentieth Century flies on its errands, as our near neighbors in space fly on their errands.

You can imagine a solemn hoptoad rebuking his fellow, asking, "Why do you sit at in the evening and waste time on the headlight of that flying train? What good can it do you, after catching flies and beetles all day?"
